DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-21 have been examined.

Drawings

2. New corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in this application because the drawings are hand drawn and difficult to read. Applicant is advised to employ the services of a competent patent draftsperson outside the Office, as the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office no longer prepares new drawings. The corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The requirement for corrected drawings will not be held in abeyance.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 4. Claims 1-3, 5-12, and 15-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 2002/0094787, known hereafter as Avent et al.

5. Claim 1 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:

1. A method for user access to a publicly accessible information source comprising: providing a publicly accessible information source having data and an integrated visible display, the visible display presenting at least a first subset of the data; {Para 6 lines 1-8} upon viewing the integrated visible display or matching pre-programmed user requirements, sending query data to the publicly accessible information source; {Para 28 the act of using a menu to get additional information is querying the publicly available information source} and receiving at least a second subset of the publicly accessible information source data from the publicly accessible information source, {Para 28 downloading information from the menu} wherein the publicly accessible information source is simultaneously accessible to a plurality of users in the vicinity of the publicly accessible information source. {This system is inherently accessible by all users in the vicinity of the transceiver}

- 6. Claim 2 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:
- 2. The method of claim 1 wherein the publicly accessible information source sends and receives data using a transceiver. {Para 23 "the broadcasting device may be comprised of a transceiver mounted or embedded in the display"}
- 7. Claim 3 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:
- 3. The method of claim 1 wherein the publicly accessible information source performs at least one of storing data, organizing data, and sorting data, using a database. {Para 25 "data may be stored in the transceiver itself in an internal database"}

- 8. Claim 5 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:
- 5. The method of claim 2 wherein the transceiver communicates using a hardwired connection.

 {Para 23 "the transceiver may communicate wirelessly or there can be a hardwire connection."}
- 9. Claim 6 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:
- 6. The method of claim 2 wherein the transceiver communicates using infrared light. {Para 6}
- 10. Claim 7 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:
- 7. The method of claim 2 wherein the transceiver communicates using radio frequency communications. {Para 6}
- 11. Claim 8 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:
- 8. The method of claim 1 further comprising initiating a telephone call or accessing a URL using the received second subset of data. {Para 8}
- 12. Claim 9 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:
- 9. The method of claim 1 further comprising performing a commercial transaction using the received second subset of data. {Para 14}

- 13. Claim 10 is rejected as Avent teaches the limitations as follows:See Claim 1 rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 23. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 24. Claims 4, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Avent et al. in view of US 2002/0078253, know hereafter Szondy et al.
- 25. Claims 4 13 and 14 are rejected for the following reasons:

Avent et al. teaches the claims upon which the claims are dependent, however it fails to expressly disclose negotiating between the user device and the data provider to determine the content type and the device capabilities. This is taught but Szondy et al. in figure 2 and paras 3 and 5. Thus it would have been obvious to include the feature in these claims in the invention of Avent as they allow for a large number of different devices to be used and reduces the amount of memory needed to provide the service to the devices.
